The cannabis market is riddled with flaws which other industries solved decades ago

The lab with our main character, he discovered the new kind of cannabis, he's pleased.

2

Some examples being: high cost of entry, steep operating expenses, and rampant counterfeiting.

We look at the product line (conveyor) with products (cannabises). And at the top of them appears information that products have no certification, licensing and other matters. he sees those issues the smile disappear.

Making this worse, there are no ways to patent or prove ownership of a plant, and little opportunity for recurring revenue.

We see the character who amid his appearing options of cannabis. And above of them pops up the question icons since he doesn't know who is owner of this cannabis
